Program in Criminal Justice Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey

Learning Goals: A Statement of Principles

The Program Committee for the Program in Criminal Justice at Rutgers University in New Brunswick has adopted a series of learning goals for students who complete the major. These goals represent the consensus of the faculty regarding the concepts a student should grasp and the skills a student should acquire in the course of completing the major. These goals guide the choices faculty make about the structure of the curriculum and the requirements for our majors. Moreover, they guide faculty and instructors preparing course material and teaching courses.

The Program in Criminal Justice will provide students with a rich understanding of crime and criminal justice in the United States and abroad through an interdisciplinary approach that blends a strong liberal arts educational experience with pre-professional instruction in the field of criminal justice. Graduates of the program will be well-informed citizens on the topic of crime and justice, and qualified for graduate study or for employment as practitioners in a variety of legal, policymaking, and law enforcement fields.

Criminal justice majors graduating from a research university should be able to use critical thinking, factual inquiry, and the scientific approach to solve problems related to individual and group behavior. In addition, students should have an understanding of the legal, political and policymaking processes that affect criminal justice systems in the United States and elsewhere in the world. Finally, students should be familiar with the institutional structures and latest developments in the field in order to engage in meaningful debate about current public policy issues.

Learning Goals for Criminal Justice Majors

1. Competence:

- a.) Theory. Students who complete the major in criminal justice should understand and be able to articulate, both orally and in writing, the core theoretical concepts that form the foundation of analysis and research in criminology and criminal justice today. Core concepts are derived from explanations of crime from a variety of perspectives, including biogenic, psychological, and sociological approaches. There are myriad theories of crime that are informed by these perspectives, including, classical, control, critical, ecology, labeling, learning, strain, and trait-based approaches. Theoretical literacy should extend to multicultural and international understanding.
  - b.) Institutions. Students who complete the major in criminal justice should understand the special role of three types of institutions: Police, Corrections, and Courts. In addition, students should know how institutional forms vary across jurisdictions and how these institutions interact with and influence each other.
  - c.) Research Methods. Students who complete the criminal justice major should be familiar with the tools, techniques, and data sources necessary for empirical analysis. Students should understand the various ways that empirical analysis is used in the scientific approach: for description, for developing, and for testing theories. They should be able to analyze data using computer applications and should be familiar with basic statistical techniques and regression analysis. They should be able to read and assess research from a wide range of sources, including general interest, academic, and government publications.
2. Critical Thinking: Upon completion of the major students should be able to apply their understanding of core concepts and quantitative tools to analyze and research real world problems, and evaluate alternative policy proposals on a range of criminal justice issues, from micro-level analyses relevant to particular cases to management concerns to macro-level analyses of legislative and other broad-scale policies. Accomplishment of this goal will require that students can apply their literacy and numeracy skills to different institutional structures, within the U.S. and across countries.
3. Scholarship: Qualified majors should have an opportunity through such avenues as advanced coursework, internships, and faculty interactions to conduct independent research on matters of central relevance to the field of criminal justice.

SYLLABUS

PURPOSE OF THE COURSE:

This course provides an introduction, overview, and survey of the American criminal justice system and its subsystems- police, courts, juvenile justice, corrections, and victim witness assistance. The class will examine the role, development, policies and management of the different public agencies and organizations that constitute the criminal justice system. Emphasis is also placed on the study of current and future critical issues such as due process, discretion in the administration of justice, community policing, police ethics, domestic violence intervention, technology to combat crime, threat assessment protocols and counter terrorism strategies, and evidence based juvenile and adult offender institutional and community based treatment programs.

This is a core curriculum course and will be assessed as such. The following are the two learning goals that Introduction to Criminal Justice satisfies:

Goal j – Student is able to: Identify and critically assess ethical issues in social science and history.

Goal n – Student is able to: Apply concepts about human and social behavior to particular questions or situations.

The Peer Advisor Program was designed to connect prospective Criminal Justice majors currently taking Introduction to Criminal Justice (01:202:201) to the advising staff, as well as ensure those students are receiving valuable advising and academic information pertaining to registration, Rutgers digital academic platforms, University resources, etc.

Students currently enrolled in all sections of Introduction to Criminal Justice are required to participate in the Peer Advisor Program as part of their participation grade. (Please refer to your individual professor's syllabus for more specific information.) Students are required to attend a one-on-one session between October 2nd and November 17th. All Peer Advisors will be hosting their weekly office hours in Lucy Stone Hall, room A359. You can find the Peer Advisor office hours here: Peer Advisor Office Hours. [You do not need to schedule an appointment.] Please refer below to the appropriate instructions for completing your required peer advising appointment.

If you are a NON-SAS STUDENT:

- Instead of seeing one of the Criminal Justice Peer Advisors, you are required to make an advising appointment between October 2nd and November 17th to see your academic advisor for your major. As proof of your advising meeting, you must obtain a business card from your academic advisor that is both signed and dated. After the business card has been signed/dated, please legibly write your RU ID on the card.
- If your academic advisor does not have a business card, he/she may send an email to CJHSatRutgers@gmail.com that includes your full name and RU ID and stipulates the date that you have met with your advisor.
- Business cards (and emails) must be received no later than November 17th at 3:00pm. All business cards must be dropped off with one of the Criminal Justice Peer Advisors during the scheduled office hours. You must present your RU ID (or driver's license) when dropping off your materials.

If you are an SAS STUDENT:

- You must attend a one-on-one advising session with one of the Criminal Justice Peer Advisors between October 2nd and November 17th.
- When attending your appointment, you must bring your RU ID and present it to the peer advisor. (If you do not have an RU ID, you may substitute with a driver's license.)
- The peer advising appointment will take approximately 5-7 minutes.
- Peer advisors will only see students on an individual basis; if your peer advisor is busy, please have a seat on one of the couches in the hallway and wait your turn.

Any questions about the Peer Advisor Program and its requirement, you may speak with Professor Szejner or you may email the C.J. main office directly at major@crimjust.rutgers.edu.
